

COOL LOVING ORCHIDS

Cascade Cymbidium

When we talk about orchids, tropical temperatures are often thought of. However, there are also orchid species that grow in much cooler places. The Cascade Cymbidium is such an orchid, originally it comes from heights of 500 to 2000 meters. This makes the Cymbidium perfectly suitable for placing in cooler places where other plants find it too cold.

The plant flowers for about 3 weeks at a temperature of 21°C. At 18°C it takes 6 weeks and with 12°C you can even enjoy the flowers for 12 weeks. A few degrees above zero is also no problem. A beautiful plant for the hall, conservatory, bedroom and on the veranda.
